*"Co-Director of the Digital Psychiatry
Program at Beth Israel Deaconess
Medical Center"*

Guest Speaker Announced!

Meet John Torous, MD, Co-Director of the Digital Psychiatry Program at Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center!

John Torous, MD is co-director of the digital psychiatry program at Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center, a Harvard Medical School affiliated teaching hospital, where he also serves as a staff psychiatrist and clinical informatics fellow. He has a background in electrical engineering and computer sciences and received an undergraduate degree in the field from UC Berkeley before attending medical school at UC San Diego. He completed his psychiatry residency at Harvard. Dr. Torous is active in investigating the potential of mobile mental health technologies for psychiatry, developing smartphone tools for clinical research, leading clinical studies of smartphone apps for diverse mental illnesses, and publishing on the research, ethical, and patient perspectives of digital psychiatry. He serves as editor-in-chief for the leading academic journal on technology and mental health, JMIR Mental Health (<http://mental.jmir.org/>), currently leads the American Psychiatric Association's work group on the evaluation of smartphone apps, and co-chairs the Massachusetts Psychiatric Society's Health Information Technology Committee. He is an assistant editor for The Harvard Review of Psychiatry and section editor for The Asian Journal of Psychiatry as well as Psychiatric Times.

Mobile device usage long ago surpassed traditional desktop computers, and this growth is only going to accelerate. The proliferation and effectiveness of mobile applications and technologies drives constant change in our day-to-day lives. Today, building and developing patient relationships with a mobile-first mindset is critical to providing ever-improving levels of mental and behavioral healthcare to an increasingly tech-savvy population.

Join Credible's guest speaker John Torous as he discusses the current condition of the mobile technology ecosystem within the broader behavioral health industry, as well as how front-line care providers can leverage mobility these applications, devices, and other mobile tools to quickly and dramatically improve patient outcomes at your Agency.
