Here is a glance of some of the valuable sessions you won't want to miss:

Sue Klebold

Keynote Address

Ms. Klebold is the mother of Dylan Klebold, one of the gunmen responsible for the Columbine High School shootings. In the aftermath of the tragedy, her search for understanding would span over fifteen years, examine the crucial intersection between mental health problems and violence. As a result of her exploration, Sue emerged a passionate advocate, dedicated to the advancement of mental health awareness and intervention.

Dr. Johanna Ferman

From I-Thou to IT: Moving From Integration to Silos...and Back

How we think about, gather, and make use of data is central to successful navigation in the evolving world of performance-based reimbursement. However, one of the central challenges of true health reform is the seeming clash of cultures as we bring physical and behavioral health into a whole. Meeting these challenges without losing some of the field's greatest strengths must be central to our conversation.

Judge Steven Leifman

Ending the Criminalization of Mental Illness

Judge Steven Leifman will discuss his journey into the mental health system, the legal and medical history that led to America's mental health crisis, and the essential elements necessary to create an effective system of care that will ultimately transform the mental health and criminal justice systems, and make jail the last option for people with serious mental illnesses, not the first.

Heather Haugen, PhD

Executive Insights: Achieving the Expected Outcomes from Technology Investments

This presentation will focus on how behavioral health organizations can improve the adoption of EHRs to achieve the outcomes they expect from their technology investments by applying a research-based methodology. Behavioral health organizations will learn how to improve clinical acceptance, increase productivity, and improve the experience of clinicians and staff. Leaders will learn how to engage clinicians to achieve the expected outcomes, improve the proficiency of users, measure the key drivers of adoption and sustain those changes long-term.

Meg Hutchinson

Moving Beyond That: Illness as an Opportunity for Transformation

In this session, Boston-based singer-songwriter Meg Hutchinson will discuss her journey with Bipolar I Disorder over the past 17 years, from fear and shame to acceptance and health. This presentation narrates Meg's acceptance of the need to take medication, the profound effects that meditation and yoga have had on her life, the value of lifestyle changes, the risks of undiagnosed alcohol abuse, building a positive support network, and the value of honoring our inner lives.

Dr. Pamela Rutledge

Media Psychology: What Is It, How To Use It, and Its Impact

Massive shifts are occurring across society due to 24/7 access, peer-to-peer connectivity, and the ability to extend social experiences to virtual spaces. Media psychology uses psychological science to understand the impact of media and technology. In this session, Dr. Pamela Rutledge will address how media psychology can help make sense of these changes, and how to use it to create a powerful framework to determine what matters, and how to translate that to positive action.
